Double Rifle Hollow Rib Blanks

- $29.95 per pair -
(Plus $6.00 S&H)

These ribs are designed with the double rifle in mind. While hollow ribs are available for double shotguns, they are generally only 5/16" (.313") wide, and usually considerably more expensive. .313" is frequently not wide enough for double rifles, especially where smaller tapered barrels are used.

The rib blanks provided here are 5/8" (.625") wide, 22" long, .060" thick, and come two to a set. They are made of cold finished sheet steel and are press formed with a special mandrel and die. .625" allows enough width to be properly fit between barrels having even the smallest of tapers and a large distance between the muzzles. Since this type of rib is generally used with a quarter-rib and a front sight ramp, the 22" length should be long enough for up to 28"-30" barrels.

It must be emphasized that these are rib "blanks", not finished ribs - these ribs must be fit by the installer. This may vary from just cutting to them to length and draw filing a bevel on the underside edge so that it can be soldered to the barrels (rarely), to cutting, narrowing, tapering, and beveling the edges for fit (common).

Ribs can be ordered either through the Bunduki Publishing web site (bundukipublishing.com) using PayPal, or from Ellis Brown Custom Shop at the address listed above. We are unable to take credit card orders over the phone. If you need more information, you are welcome to give us a call for more details. Leave a message if we are not available and we will call you back, but do not expect to be able to order ribs over the phone – we can't do it - sorry.
